Course Description

Europe has experienced major change over the last 25 years, from the fall of the Berlin Wall to the recent European enlargement, with Bulgaria and Romania increasing the size of the EU to 27 member states. Enlargements of Europe, European integration, and ethnic conflict have presented major challenges for the governments of Western Europe. This course will introduce the governments and politics of countries in Western Europe and a comparative politics approach will be used.

What is comparative politics?

Comparative politics is the field within political science that tries to explain why countries vary in their domestic political institutions, their level of political and economic development, and their public policies. Other fields in political science include international relations, political theory and American politics.

Course Requirements

This course is designed to provide students with an overview of the political institutions of European governments and the European Union. By the end of the course students will be expected to be able to describe the different types of government institutions and how they impact politics and policy making in Europe. They will also be expected to describe some of the important issues facing European governments, including issues related to immigration, the financial crisis and European enlargement. Student achievement of these goals will be assessed through exams and written assignments as described below.

To receive credit for the course, students are required to complete all assigned readings and to attend lecture (the TA will be taking attendance after the first week of class). Any assignments not completed within a week of the due date will be given a zero. There will be two exams and weekly assignments. The overall grading breakdown is as follows:

Exam 1	20%
Exam 2	30%
Weekly assignments	40%

In-class assignments & Participation	10%
Total	100%

Plus-Minus grading will be used.

The 10 weekly assignments will be short – at the most you will be asked to write a page. The assignments will be given out at the end of class each Wednesday (also available on the blackboard website) and are due at the beginning of class the following Friday. Opportunities for extra credit will be announced in class. You will be allowed to get up to 2 points of extra credit which will be added to your final grade.

Readings

Gallagher, Laver and Mair (GLM), Representative Government in Modern Europe (Fourth Edition)

Various documents from the European Union

On-line readings available on Blackboard (marked  below)

You are also expected to keep up with current events. There are a variety of sources available on the internet or through the library including the Economist, Financial Times, or the International Herald Tribune.

Make-up Examinations

Make-up examinations will only be given in the case of a legitimate absence – documentation of an illness or other conflict must be provided to the instructor. If you are unable to take an exam, you MUST provide a legitimate excuse ASAP (at least within 3 days) or you will be given an F.

Late assignments

Assignments not turned in at the beginning of lecture on the due date will be penalized. Any assignments not completed within a week of the due date will be given a zero.

Incompletes

An incomplete is given only when the student has been in attendance and has done satisfactory work until within two weeks of the end of the quarter and has furnished proof satisfactory to the instructor that the work cannot be completed because of illness or other circumstances beyond the student's control.

In general, if you are having any difficulties over the course of the semester, contact the professor as soon as possible and accommodations can be made. Don't wait until you get your final grade to let us know about any problems or illness you are having.

University of Texas Honor Code

The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

Documented Disability Statement

The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. For more information, contact Services for Students with Disabilities at 471-6259 (voice) or 232-2937 (video phone) or <http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd>

Use of E-Mail for Official Correspondence to Students

E-mail is recognized as an official mode of university correspondence; therefore, you are responsible for reading your e-mail for university and course-related information and announcements. You are responsible to keep the university informed about changes to your e-mail address. You should check your e-mail regularly and frequently—I recommend daily, but at minimum twice a week—to stay current with university-related communications, some of which may be time-critical. You can find UT Austin's policies and instructions for updating your e-mail address at <http://www.utexas.edu/its/policies/emailnotify.php>

Religious Holy Days

By UT Austin policy, you must notify me of your pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of observance of a religious holy day. If you must miss a class, an examination, a work assignment, or a project in order to observe a religious holy day, I will give you an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

Behavior Concerns Advice Line (BCAL)

If you are worried about someone who is acting differently, you may use the Behavior Concerns Advice Line to discuss by phone your concerns about another individual's behavior. This service is provided through a partnership among the Office of the Dean of Students, the Counseling and Mental Health Center (CMHC), the Employee Assistance Program (EAP), and The University of Texas Police Department (UTPD).
