COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Western exposure to Africa has primarily been through stylized Hollywood films which rarely offer any historical context for the events they depict. These films have led to an overall lack of understanding for the complexities of African history and had detrimental effects on popular conceptions of Africa, its peoples, and its plights. This course seeks to increase the understanding of the social, economic, and political challenges present throughout Africa's history through an examination of several documentaries and popular films. Each film will serve a twofold purpose. First, it will be a case study used to speak to an issue central to the history of Africa, and second, aid in dispelling many of the misconceptions present in popular portrayals of the continent and its peoples. Each film, where possible, will be accompanied by a text that corresponds with the subject matter. It is the intention of these texts to speak to events and major themes of African history. The ultimate goal of these films, lectures, and discussions is to enhance students' knowledge and understanding of Africa, its societies, cultures, governments, and histories.

This course carries the Global Cultures flag. Global Cultures courses are designed to increase your familiarity with cultural groups outside the United States. You should therefore expect a substantial portion of your grade to come from assignments covering the practices, beliefs, and histories of at least one non-U.S. cultural group, past or present.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

1. To increase the knowledge and understanding of African history, culture, and society
2. To identify key themes in African history that transcend national boundaries
3. To help students understand the social, cultural, political, and economic agents which have influenced Africa's history
4. To assess the viability of film as a historical source
5. To learn to interpret and evaluate primary sources
6. To understand perceptions about Africa and how they lead to misunderstandings of the past

REQUIRED TEXTS:

Toyin Falola, Key Events in African History: A Reference Guide (Westport, Conn: Greenwood, 2002). (hereafter listed as Key Events)

Toyin Falola and Adam Paddock, The Women's War of 1929: A History of Anti-Colonial Resistance (Durham, NC: Carolina Academic Press, 2011). (hereafter listed as Women's War)

Students can purchase their books from the University Co-op or other book stores on campus.

If any problems arise, please contact:

University Co-op, Textbook Dept.
2244 Guadalupe St., Austin, TX 78705
Phone: (512) 476-7211 x8108

Additional film or book material can be purchased through a number of online vendors.

The third required book for this class is chosen from the list below and depends on the final project the student chooses.

One of the Following Books is Mandatory:

It is recommended that students wait to purchase one of the following books until they know what topic interests them for the response paper. Refer to the project choices to see which films match with the books.

Davidson, Basil. African Civilization Revisited: From Antiquity to Modern Times. New York, African World Press, 1990.

Conrad, Joseph. Heart of Darkness. New York: Modern Library, 1999.

Van Woerden, Henk. A Mouthful of Glass. London: Granta Books, 2000.

Biko, Steve. I Write What I Like: Selected Writings. London: Bowerdean Press, 1978.

Gourevitch, Philip. We wish to inform you that tomorrow we will be killed with our Families: Stories from Rwanda. New York: Picador, 1998.

Eggers, David. What is the What? New York, First Vintage Books, 2006.

ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignment (100%)	Due Date	Grade Percentage
Exam #1	March 7	25 points
Africa Conference Review	April 4	15 points
Response Paper	April 18	20 points
Exam #2	May 2	25 points
Blackboard Discussions /Attendance	Varies – See Syllabus	15 points

Calculating Your Grade:

To calculate your grade simply divide the amount of points scored for an assignment by the total number of point scored up to that point. Grades will be tracked on blackboard and made available a week after the assignments are returned.

Grading Scale:

Letter Grade:	Grade Assessment:
93-100: A	A = Excellent
90-92: A-	B = Above Average
87-89: B+	C = Average
83-86: B	D = Below Average
80-82: B-	F = Little evidence of
77-79: C+	learning course material
73-76: C
70-72: C-
67-69: D+
63-66: D
60-62: D-
0-59: F

Special TA Office Hours:

In the event that a student wishes to review a film they are unable to access at the library, the TA will hold additional office hours by appointment only on Fridays at the Fine Arts Library. Students must schedule an appointment 48 hours in advance. If a student fails to meet an appointment without at least a 24 hour notice, the TA reserves the right to refuse scheduling additional meetings with the student outside regular office hours. The only exception to this policy is a documented emergency.

Attendance Guidelines:

Students must be present to view each film; therefore, attendance is mandatory. Late attendance will disturb the class. You must arrive on time. Make-ups will be granted only in the case of medical illness or a university-related conflict. Such conflicts will require signed documentation from the Dean's Office explaining the reason for your absence and the student must view the missed film at the Fine Arts Library. Cell phones must be off and there should be no talking in class during film viewing. If you would like to hold a conversation you should step out of the lecture hall. To get full points for attendance (40 points) you may only miss 2 classes without a documented absence.

Africa Conference Review Guidelines:

All students must attend TWO panels and the keynote lecture during the Africa Conference (March 29-31st—additional information will be announced in class). Students may select any two panels based on their own individual interests. Students must write a THREE page paper discussing each of the panelist's papers, the discussion following the panel presentations, and the keynote lecture. For example, if you choose to attend two panels that have four members speaking each, you must discuss all eight of the presenters, their papers, the discussion following the presentations, AND the keynote lecture. Successful papers will include summaries of each of the presentations and your opinion of each paper (strengths, weaknesses, etc.). Your papers must be stapled. The report will be due one week after the lecture. No email submissions will be accepted. Your lecture reviews will be worth 15 points of your final grade.

Exam Guidelines:

There will be two exams during the semester consisting of long essay questions and short answer identifications. Each exam will be worth 25 points of your final grade. (A study guide will be posted on blackboard one week prior to the exam date).

Exam 1:

For the first exam, any readings, films viewed in class, and lectures/discussions may be tested on exam one. Exam one will include two essay questions. One essay question will be related to films and the second will be related to the Women's War book.

Sample Questions:

Question 1: Compare the film Egypt: The Habit of Civilization with Time Life's Lost Civilizations: Egypt. Evaluate how the two documentaries differ in their presentation of Ancient Egypt. Use lectures and course readings to support your answer. The answer must use specific examples from the films and readings to assess historical accuracy. Conclude your essay with an assessment as to why you think two documentaries can portray the same subject matter differently and which documentary is historically more accurate. Explain your answer.

Question 2: Select one theme from The Women's War of 1929 text: economics, gender, or politics and evaluate how colonial conquest influenced the selected theme. You must pick only one of the three themes and the answer must rely on specific examples from The Women's War book and the course text Key Events in African History. You may in addition relate the theme to a film shown in class. Conclude the essay with an evaluation of whether or not the Women's War of 1929 changed your perspective of colonial Africa.

Exam 2:

For the final exam, you will be required to answer two essay questions. The first essay question will be similar to the sample question from exam 1 where the student must compare two films shown in class and evaluate their historical accuracy. The second question on exam 2 will test the student's ability to evaluate primary sources documents. The student will be given one or two documents from The Women's War of 1929 text. The student will also be given a question prompt to guide their analysis of the documents.

Sample Question:

Question 2: Read the two primary documents then answer the following questions in an essay format: Who wrote the documents? What are the documents about? When were the documents written? What are the purposes of the documents? What are the writers trying to accomplish? What do the documents tell us about the time period or the events they refer to? What are the limitations of the documents? The essay must compare and contrast the two accounts and arrive at a decision as to which account they believe is more dependable and why the two accounts differ. Use specific examples, explain your answers, and evaluate the documents.

Response Paper Guidelines:

Each student is required to write response paper that incorporates two films and a selected reading. The student has several options to choose from for the second film and the selected reading. See the list at the end for details.

Reviews must be between 1200 and 1500 words, typed, double-spaced and stapled.

Reviews should be analytical, and not just a retelling of the book and film narratives. You must analyze the film in your own words and critically examine the historical content, style and the overall impression these had on you. Additionally, you will need to incorporate examples and evidence from the readings that either support or contradict the film. Feel free to express your own opinion, but do so clearly with a well supported argument. Organize and develop the main points you wish to make and re-emphasize them in a conclusion.

Do not simply reiterate the story lines, but discuss the context, style and perspective of the films, and how the book either supports or refutes these themes. (Additional materials will be posted on blackboard to assist you with this project).

Proofread your review before submitting it. The university writing center located at the FAC building offers free writing assistance. Students are encouraged to utilize this resource.

Turn your review in on time (that means at the beginning of class). Late reviews will be penalized five points for each calendar day late (not class day). After three days late, a grade of zero will be given. Emailed submissions will not be accepted. Your review will be worth 20 points of your final grade.

Blackboard Discussions:

Students are required to respond to discussion board assignments throughout the semester and read and respond to at least two of their classmates' posts. Discussion posts need to be approximately 6 sentences in length (150 words), and reflect the topic of discussion and engage the course material. All posts must conform to proper etiquette and show respect for fellow students and the subject matter. Any student who violates appropriate university rules of conduct will be subject to removal from the class. The discussion board posts are worth 15 points of your final grade. The points are earned or not earned – there are no partial points. To get the points for each post you must fully engage the question and meet the length requirement and you must respond to two classmates with each assignment. No late posts will receive credit. This is the only assignment that cannot be turned in late. There will be a one week window in which to complete these posts. The deadline for each post is listed on the course schedule.

Extra Credit Policy:

There will be no extra credit for this class. The discussion board assignments and attendance are free points. All they require is for you to participate and follow instructions.

Format Guidelines:

All assignments must be stapled, typed, double spaced, have 1” margins and size 12 Times New Roman font. Assignments that do not follow these guidelines will receive a five point deduction.

Part of writing history includes clearly communicating your ideas. As such, written assignments must conform to standard rules of written English including the organization of essays and grammar. Students who require assistance can use the undergraduate writing center in the FAC free of charge. There will also be additional materials posted on blackboard for your assistance.

Plagiarism:

How do you avoid committing plagiarism? Here are some basic tips:

1. Historians use a variety of citation formats, including footnotes, endnotes, and indicating their source directly in their text within parentheses. Within those formats, they use a variety of styles. For this class, you will be using the Chicago Manual Style for the response paper. A guide will be posted on blackboard.
2. Take notes carefully. Whenever you copy a direct quotation, protect yourself by putting quotation marks around it. Attach a full, accurate citation to any borrowed passage, whether quoted or paraphrased, and keep it attached as you write.
3. Although borrowed ideas must be fully acknowledged in a citation, you do not need to provide a citation for information that your reader can reasonably be expected to know. When in doubt, include a citation.
4. Plagiarism includes taking direct quotes or ideas from a source without giving the original author credit through a citation. It is easier to avoid plagiarism that involves verbatim copying or handing in the same paper twice than it is to avoid plagiarism that involves paraphrase, probably the trickiest area of all. Certainly it is the area where most instances of plagiarism occur.

Class Policies:

- Policy on Late or Missed Assignments/Examinations: Make-ups will be granted only in the case of medical illness or university-related conflict. Make-ups will only be given when a request is made prior to the date of the exam or assignment except for documented medical emergencies. Even with prior notice, an alternative exam date will only be given in extreme documented cases.
- Assignments: All assignments must be submitted on due dates. Assignments turned in late will incur a penalty of 5 points per calendar day late. Assignments more than three calendar days late will not be graded and will receive a zero for the assignment.
- University of Texas Honor Code: The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community. Any student found guilty of scholastic dishonesty may receive an “F” in the course and be remanded to the appropriate University of Texas authorities for disciplinary action. For more information, view Student Judicial Services at <http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs>.

- Use of Class Materials: No material presented in lecture may be directly or indirectly published, posted to the Internet, or rewritten for publication or distribution in any medium. Neither these materials nor any portion thereof may be stored in a computer except for personal and non-commercial use. All information derived from the internet must be adequately cited.
- Student Privacy: The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) require that student privacy be preserved. Thus the posting of grades, even by the last four digits of the social security number, is forbidden. All communication will remain between the instructor and the student, and the instructor will not be able to share details of the student's performance with parents, spouses, or any others.
- Documented Disability Statement: The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. For more information, contact Services for Students with Disabilities at 471-6259 (voice) or 232-2937 (video phone). Students who require special accommodations need to get a letter from the Service for Students with Disabilities. This letter should be presented to the Professor at the beginning of the semester and the specific accommodations discussed at this time. Five days prior to an exam, it is the student's responsibility to remind the professor of the accommodations needed. If the student fails to produce the letter and speak with the Professor five days before the exam, then the student may not get the accommodations he/she requires.
