Course Description

This course introduces students to the closely related discourses of law and literature. In the context of nineteenth-century British society, which underwent vast changes in economic, political, religious, and social conditions, we will examine the ways in which legal principles, institutions, and practices permeated the literary imaginations of some of Britain’s most popular and widely read novelists. We will also read selections from canonical works of English legal history, as well as more contemporary interpretations of such history with respect to selected topics. These readings will help us identify the central legal issues raised by the novels and evaluate how the novelists perceived the law and its effects on social relations.

Course Prerequisites: Nine hours of coursework in English or Rhetoric and Writing

Unique Number: 35240
Meeting Time: TTH 8-9:30
Meeting Place: Parlin 204
Instructor: George S. Christian
Office: Calhoun 6
Office Hours: MWF 8-9, and by appointment

Course Requirements:

• Weekly reading. Reading assignments for each class are given in the detailed syllabus below. Please come to class prepared to discuss the readings assigned for that class period.

• Regular participation in class discussion. Class discussion will be the primary method of instruction. While there will be some short lectures for purposes of background or historical context, most class time will be spent discussing the texts we have read and their significance to the topics of the day.

• Weekly response papers. Students will write a weekly response paper of no more than 500 words. Each response should discuss a topic relevant to the week’s reading, either from a primary or secondary source (or both). These papers may be revised for a higher grade.

• Exams. There will be two short-essay take-home exams in the course. These exams may be revised for a higher grade.

• Prospectus. Each student shall prepare a brief (500 words) prospectus for the final essay. The prospectus will be due on the date specified in the detailed syllabus.

• Short essay. In lieu of a final exam, each student will write a 5-page final essay on a topic selected in consultation with me. This paper is due on the last class day, December 7.

• Regular attendance. Attendance is mandatory. Absences should occur only in cases of serious health-related or family emergency. Any student with more than five absences will not receive a passing grade in the course. Special accommodations can be made if a class session or a paper/exam deadline interferes with religious observance. Please let me know as soon as you think a conflict is anticipated.
Books and Course Materials:

All required books are available at the University Co-op. The supplemental reading packet is available at Jenn’s Copy and Binding, located at 2200 Guadalupe (downstairs).

The University of Texas Honor Code:
The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the University is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

University Electronic Mail Notification Policy:
(Use of E-mail for Official Correspondence to Students)

All students should become familiar with the University’s official e-mail student notification policy. It is the student’s responsibility to keep the University informed as to changes in his or her e-mail address. Students are expected to check e-mail on a frequent and regular basis in order to stay current with University-related communications, recognizing that certain communications may be time-critical. It is recommended that e-mail be checked daily, but at a minimum, twice per week. The complete text of this policy and instructions for updating your e-mail address are available at: http://www.utexas.edu/its/policies/emailnotify.html.

In this course e-mail will be used as a means of communication with students. You will be responsible for checking your e-mail regularly for class work and assignments. Note: if you are an employee of the University, your e-mail address in Blackboard is your employee address.

Use of Blackboard in Classes:

This course uses Blackboard, a Web-based course management system in which a password-protected site is created for each course. (Student enrollments in each course are updated each evening.) Blackboard can be used to distribute course materials, to communicate and collaborate online, to post grades, to submit assignments, and to take online quizzes and surveys.

You will be responsible for checking the Blackboard course site regularly for class work and announcements. As with all computer systems, there are occasional scheduled downtimes as well as unanticipated disruptions. Notification of these disruptions will be posted on the Blackboard login page. Scheduled downtimes are not an excuse for late work. However, if there is an unscheduled downtime for a significant period of time, I will make an adjustment if it occurs close to the due date.

Blackboard is available at http://course.utexas.edu. Support is provided by the ITS Help Desk at 475-9400 Monday through Friday 8 am to 6 pm, so plan accordingly.
