COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will analyze the origins and consequences of U.S. policies toward Latin America. The first third of the course provides some basic background on U.S.-Latin American relations. We will identify the main actors in U.S. policymaking in the region, discuss different theories that seek to explain U.S.-Latin American relations, and examine the history of U.S.-Latin American relations from the colonial period to World War II. The second part of the course will deal with U.S.-Latin American relations during the Cold War, from 1945 to 1990. The topics examined here will include the Cuban missile crisis and the Bay of Pigs, U.S. support for South American military regimes, and U.S. policy toward guerrilla movements in Central America. The final section of the course will examine current issues in U.S.-Latin American relations, including economic ties, immigration, narcotics and the promotion of democracy.

This course offers an optional Supplemental Instruction (SI) discussion section in conjunction with the Sanger Learning and Career Center. Your TA will hold this discussion section twice a week for one hour (Note: the same material will be covered in both sections). The section will cover course material as well as other skills that are vital for college success such as how to organize information, test prep and test taking skills, and critical thinking and writing skills. There is a consistent and strong correlation between grades and SI attendance and you are highly encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity.

GRADING PROCEDURES

Grades will be assessed based on a 5-6 page research paper worth 20 points, and 3 in-class examinations. The first two examinations, which will include both multiple choice and essay questions, are each worth 30 points. The 3rd examination, which will include only multiple choice questions, is worth 20 points. The examinations will be held on Sept. 24, Oct. 31, and Dec. 5. The research paper, which must deal with some current issue in U.S. Latin American relations, is due on Nov. 28 in class. There is no final exam.
In order to calculate your final grade, I will sum all of the points you have received in the class and convert the points into letter grades using the following scale:

- 93 and above = A
- 90-92 = A-
- 87-89 = B+
- 83-86 = B
- 80-82 = B-
- 77-79 = C+
- 73-76 = C
- 70-72 = C-
- 67-69 = D+
- 63-66 = D
- 60-62 = D-
- Below 60 = F

I will round up scores of 0.5 and higher and round down scores of less than 0.5. I do not allow extra credit assignments and no exceptions will be made to the above system of grading.

The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. For more information, contact Services for Students with Disabilities, 512-471-6259, http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd/

Students who violate University rules on plagiarism and scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. For further information on plagiarism and academic dishonesty, please see: http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs/acint_student.php

I allow students with a reasonable excuse (e.g., an illness) to make up one exam per semester without penalty. Students who need to miss a class due to a religious holiday should notify me at least fourteen days prior to the holiday. If you must miss a class, an examination, a work assignment, or a project in order to observe a religious holy day, you will be given an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.
