E376M/AFR 374: The Harlem Renaissance

Spring 2010
Instructor: Dr. Jennifer Wilks
Office: PAR 108
Office hours: Available upon request

Course Description
Long before the late-twentieth century arrival of Starbucks and Clintons, there was another Harlem Renaissance, a time during the 1920s and 1930s when African American artistic and cultural life flourished with Harlem as its epicenter. In this course we will draw upon nonfiction, fiction, and poetry not only to remember the Renaissance as traditionally portrayed in literary history, but also to re-member the movement, to piece together our own impressions of its people, places, and passions. Who were the leading figures of the Renaissance? What are the forgotten but no less important names? How did the movement’s influence extend beyond the confines of upper Manhattan? In addition to these questions, we will also address how literary production complemented and contrasted with the politics, music, and fine art of the period. Our ultimate goal is not only to emerge with a broader picture of the Harlem Renaissance, but also to understand the period’s significance as a pivotal transition in African American literary expression, one bridging the gap between Reconstruction literature of the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries and urban literature of the mid-twentieth century.

Requirements
Course requirements include:

Papers: Two short papers, the first of which will be turned in as a complete, 4-page rough draft, revised, and resubmitted for a final grade, and a final critical essay. All papers must be formatted according to the guidelines of the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, available in libraries and bookstores.

Reading responses: Short responses on assigned readings. In most cases, I will provide questions or guidelines for each response, which you may be asked to share with the class. I will collect them at the end of class, and they will be graded with a check-plus (you are really thinking and asking questions), check (you completed the response), or check-minus (did you really read the assignment?). Responses will not be accepted late, and they should be typed (1-2 double-spaced pages). If you are too ill to attend class on the day that an assignment is due, you may e-mail it to me as an attachment provided that I receive the e-mail and am able to open the attachment before class begins.

Prompt, regular, and engaged attendance: Attendance is required. Your participation in class discussion and group activities is just as important as the timely completion of written assignments.

Grading
Two short papers (4 pages each) 40%
Final critical essay (5-7 pages)
Reading responses
Rough draft (4 pages)

Plus/minus grading will be used. The grading scale can be found on the course Blackboard site.

University Policy Notes
* Academic Integrity
“A fundamental principle for any educational institution, academic integrity is highly valued and seriously regarded at The University of Texas at Austin, as emphasized in the standards of conduct. More specifically, you and other students are expected to ‘maintain absolute integrity and a high standard of individual honor in scholastic work’ undertaken at the University (Sec. 11-801, Institutional Rules on Student Services and Activities). This is a very basic expectation that is further reinforced by the University’s Honor Code. At a minimum, you should complete any assignments, exams, and other scholastic endeavors with the utmost honesty, which requires you to:

- acknowledge the contributions of other sources to your scholastic efforts;
- complete your assignments independently unless expressly authorized to seek or obtain assistance in preparing them;
- follow instructions for assignments and exams, and observe the standards of your academic discipline; and
- avoid engaging in any form of academic dishonesty on behalf of yourself or another student.”

* Disabilities
Students with disabilities may request appropriate academic accommodations from the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement, Services for Students with Disabilities, by calling 471-6259.

* Religious holidays
A student who misses an examination, work assignment, or other project due to the observance of a religious holy day will be given an opportunity to complete the work missed within a reasonable time after the absence, provided that he or she has properly notified the instructor. It is the policy of the University of Texas at Austin that the student must notify the instructor at least 14 days prior to the classes scheduled on dates he or she will be absent to observe a religious holy day. For religious holy days that fall within the first two weeks of the semester, the notice should be given on the first day of the semester. The student will not be penalized for these excused absences, but the instructor may appropriately respond if the student fails to complete satisfactorily the missed assignment or examination within a reasonable time after the excused absence.
