II. Proposed Courses

Please list your courses (12 credit hours) fulfilling the program requirements. Courses fulfilling the Asian American Studies (AAS) graduate portfolio must include 25% AAS content. This may be fulfilled by course readings and course assignments such as research papers, presentations, and other projects (see attachment 2 materials to include). Plan of study may also include a three-hour independent study or directed reading course supervised by an affiliated faculty member (see attachment 3 materials to include). Students must complete one designated core course that will provide foundational training in AAS that will prepare them to teach an AAS course. At least two of the courses for the portfolio (six credit hours) must be taken outside of the student’s home department. Courses previously completed may fulfill portfolio requirements, with consent of the AAS Director.
