5th Annual AGEP-SBES Conference
Racial/Ethnic Diversity in the Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences

The University of Texas at Austin
April 21-23, 2010
This conference was made possible by a grant from the

National Science Foundation

Further generous support came from the following at The University of Texas at Austin:

Center for Mexican American Studies

        College of Liberal Arts
        Department of Sociology
        Department of Anthropology
        Population Research Center
        Department of Government
        Office of Graduate Studies

Division of Diversity and Community Engagement
5th Annual NSF-Sponsored Conference on Racial/Ethnic Diversity in Graduate Programs in the Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences

April 21-23, 2010

AT&T Conference Center

The University of Texas at Austin
5th Annual NSF-Sponsored Conference on Racial/Ethnic Diversity in Graduate Programs in the Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences

Each year, principal investigators and diversity directors from 23 participating universities (working together in five alliances) around the country gather to discuss program goals, share best practices, discuss assessments of our activities, and plan ahead to improve our efforts in the nationwide initiative to increase racial/ethnic diversity in graduate programs and the professoriate in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences (SBES). This year (April 21-23, 2010), the annual conference is being held at the AT&T Hotel and Conference Center on the campus of The University of Texas at Austin. This year’s conference includes principal investigators of the 23 programs who are participating in this effort, SBES diversity directors at these programs, and NSF program officers who are directing the effort. Moreover, this year’s conference highlights the research work of over 60 graduate students from the participating universities who are taking part in the conference. The conference will provide a great opportunity for the students to showcase their work, to network with other students, diversity directors, and faculty members from around the country, and to meet and interact with NSF program officers.

The organizers are very grateful to a number of individuals and organizations at the University of Texas at Austin who assisted in the planning, organization, and financing of this conference. Perhaps most important include the countless hours spent by the administrative staff (especially Mary De La Garza, Meghan Thomson, Sylvia Celedon, and Adam Polanco) and computing staff (especially Steve Boren, Scott Shepherd, and Mark Boze) in the Population Research Center. A number of UT organizations were eager to help co-sponsor the conference, for which we are very grateful; these organizations include the College of Liberal Arts, the Office of Graduate Studies, the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement, the Center for Mexican American Studies, the Population Research Center, the Department of Anthropology, the Department of Government, and the Department of Sociology. Their financial contributions, particularly in this budgetary context, are greatly appreciated.

In addition to UT-Austin, our alliance partners worked very hard in helping us to organize this conference. These friends and colleagues include Jean Morrison and Richard Andalon at the University of Southern California; Karen Cook, Laura Lopez-Sanders, and Sarah Gamino at Stanford University; and Rogelio Saenz and Glenn Bracey at Texas A&M University. Further, outside of our alliance, many of our friends and colleagues from our nationwide initiative helped drum up student interest, contributed great ideas, and helped us with conference planning, name/address lists, and other details. While at risk of leaving some out, we are especially indebted to the suggestions, help, and ideas of Gloria Chun (UC-Berkeley), Larry Henschen (Northwestern), Cheryl Judice (Northwestern), Patrice Dickerson (Ohio State University), Gail Smith (CUNY Graduate Center), Beth Schneider (UC-Santa Barbara), Pat Campbell (Campbell-Kibler Associates), Fahmida Chowdhury (National Science Foundation), and Pat White (National Science Foundation). Finally, a number of friends and colleagues from Texas universities were gracious enough to attend the conference and serve as panelists or discussants. These individuals include Steve Murdock (Rice University), Raquel Marquez (UT-San Antonio), Gloria Gonzalez-Lopez (UT-Austin), Jaime Chahin (Texas State University), Randy Diehl (UT-Austin), Victoria Rodriguez (UT-Austin), and Greg Vincent (UT-Austin); thank you all for the time, energy, and thoughts you are providing. This has truly been a nationwide effort.

Finally, we thank our friend, colleague, and key sponsor of this effort, Pat White of the National Science Foundation. Pat’s efforts at NSF have made an important impact on our attempt to increase the recruitment, retention, graduation, and placement of under-represented scholars in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences.

Robert A. Hummer, University of Texas at Austin
Verónica C. Aravena, University of Texas at Austin
PROGRAM AGENDA

(All conference events/meetings will be held at the AT&T Center, with the exception of the group dinner at Stubb’s Bar-BQ on Thursday night)

WEDNESDAY APRIL 21st

4:00-8:00 PM Registration [near Interior courtyard]

8:00-10:00 PM Opening Reception [Interior Courtyard]

THURSDAY APRIL 22nd

7:30-9:00 Registration [hallway near meeting rooms 105-106]

7:30-9:00 Student Poster Session set-up [Room 104]

7:30-9:00 Breakfast in hotel [hallway near meeting rooms 105-106]

9:00-9:15 Welcoming and Greetings [Room 105]

Conference Greeting: Robert Hummer, University of Texas at Austin
Welcome to UT-Austin: Randy Diehl, University of Texas at Austin

9:15-10:15 Plenary Session [Room 105]

Presider: Robert Hummer, University of Texas at Austin
Speaker: Steve Murdock, Rice University, “Population Change in the United States: Historical Patterns and Future Trends Affecting Education, the Labor Force and Economic Development”
Reactions: Victoria Rodriguez, University of Texas at Austin
Greg Vincent, University of Texas at Austin

10:15-10:30 Break

10:30-11:45 Improving recruitment and retention among Latina/os [Room 105]

Presider: Rogelio Saenz, Texas A&M University
Panelists: Raquel Marquez, University of Texas at San Antonio
Jaime Chahin, Texas State University
Rogelio Saenz, Texas A&M University
Gloria Gonzalez-Lopez, University of Texas at Austin
12:00-1:00 Lunch in hotel [Tejas Dining Room]

1:00-2:30 Concurrent Student Sessions 1 [Room 105], 2 [Room 106], and 3 [Room 202]

Student Paper Session 1: Education, Work, and Policy [Room 105]

Presider: Richard Andalon, University of Southern California

Papers/Presenters:
1) Racialized School Referral Process Without Racist Teachers: The Journeys of Pushout and Drop-out Youth into a Continuation High School, by Jessica Dunning-Lozano, University of Texas at Austin
2) Emergent Knowledge in the 21st Century: Fifty Years of Multicultural Education Policy Implementation in Developing Multi-ethnic States, by Heidi N. Holder, CUNY Graduate Center
3) Evidence and Beliefs Used in Congressional Hearings to Influence Federal Child Welfare Policymaking, by Heather Edwards, Howard University
4) Nepotism Around the World: An Organizational Justice Perception, by Rabiah Muhammad, University of Maryland at College Park

Student Paper Session 2: Culture and Politics in Latin America [Room 106]

Presider: Beth Schneider, University of California at Santa Barbara

Papers/Presenters:
1) Cultural Restoration as a Generative Force for New Forms of Maya Politics in Post-Conflict Guatemala, by Czarina Aggabao Thelen, University of Texas at Austin
2) Black Bodies, Contested Ethnicities: Fighting and Dying to Become a Quilombo in Brazil, by Elizabeth Farfan, University of California at Berkeley

Student Paper Session 3: Health Care and Health Behavior [Room 202]

Presider: Robert Hummer, University of Texas at Austin

Papers/Presenters:
1) Health Seeking Strategies of Recent Mexican Immigrants Living in Lansing, Michigan, by Isabel Montemayor, Michigan State University
2) Comparing the Reports of Stress and Health Behaviors of a Multi-Ethnic Undergraduate Population, by Lenwood Hayman, Wayne State University
3) Health Services Access and HIV Prevention: Working with Sex Workers and Gay Men, by David Colon Cabrera, University of Maryland at College Park
4) Latent Growth Modeling of Change in Cardiovascular Risk Factors and Coronary Artery Calcification: Findings from the Multi-Ethnic Study of Atherosclerosis (MESA), by William Arguelles, University of Miami
2:45-4:15 Concurrent Student Sessions 4 [Room 105], 5 [Room 106], and 6 [Room 202]

Student Session 4: Migration and Its Consequences [Room 105]

Presider: Rogelio Saenz, Texas A&M University

Papers/Presenters:
1) Nativism and Depression among Undocumented Mexican Immigrant Women, by San Juanita Garcia, Texas A&M University
2) Latino, Hispanic, or Other: Racialization of Brazilian Immigrants in the US, by Tiffany D. Joseph, University of Michigan
4) The Effects of Family Out-Migration on the Care of Garifuna Orphans in Central America, by Camille Feanny, University of Florida

Student Session 5: Politics and Political Engagement [Room 106]

Presider: Karen Cook, Stanford University

Papers/Presenters:
1) Facebook is... Fostering Political Engagement: A Study of Online Social Networking Groups and Offline Participation, by Mario Guerrero, University of California at Santa Barbara
2) Conceptualizing Vulnerability: Inclusion and Exclusion at Times of Social Catastrophe, by Lise Byars, Ohio State University
3) Anthropological Approaches to Socialism of the XXI Century, by Cristobal Valencia Ramirez, University of Illinois

Student Session 6: Innovative Data and Family/Economic Behavior [Room 202]

Presider: Jean Morrison, University of Southern California

Papers/Presenters:
1) Female-Male Proximity During Early Development as Possible Cue to Relatedness in White-Faced Capuchin Monkeys (Cebus Capucinus), by Irene Godoy, University of California at Los Angeles
2) An Experimental Exploration of Economic Behavior on Kinked Budget Sets, by Juan Carlos Suarez Serrato, University of California at Berkeley
3) Delay Discounting Moderates the Effect of Food Reinforcement on Energy Intake among Non-Obese Women, by Brandi Rollins, Pennsylvania State University

4:30-5:30 Student Poster Session [Room 104]

Presiders: Verónica Aravena, University of Texas at Austin
Laura Lopez-Sanders, Stanford University
Poster Presentations:

1) An Exploration of the Academic Trajectories of Youth from Three African-Descended Groups, Alabi Basirat, University of California at Los Angeles

2) Doing Justice, Loving Mercy, and Walking Humbly with God: A Case Study of a Progressive Christian Organization, by Kendra Barber and Beverly Pratt, University of Maryland at College Park

3) Culture, Gender, and Leadership Enactment: Determinants of Leadership Success, by Nathalie Castano, Wayne State University

4) The Effects of Non-Resident Father’s Involvement on Single Mother’s Mental Health, by Juanita Chinn and Andrea Henderson, University of Texas at Austin

5) 80’s Babies: How Members of Hip Hop’s 3rd Generation Understand and Participate in the Culture, by Charity Clay, Texas A&M University

8) The Labor Movement’s Counteroffensive against Neoliberal Policies in Sao Paulo, Brazil: Shifting Logics of Collective Action in Telemarketing Labor Unions, by David Flores, University of Michigan

9) Jail Pedagogy: Teaching Prisoners, by Jerry Flores, University of California at Santa Barbara

10) Understanding Race, Gender, and Class Intersections in Identity Negotiation Research, by Bernadette Gailliard, University of California at Santa Barbara

11) Black or White? The Black-Ape Association and Racial Categorization, by Rebecca Hetey, Stanford University

12) High Worry is Associated With Greater Resting Parasympathetic Activity in African American Compared to White College Students, by LaBarron Hill, Ohio State University

13) Negotiating Oppression with Agency: Notes from a Post-Incarceration College Program, by Duquann Hinton, CUNY Graduate Center

14) A Conceptual Model Addressing Racial and Ethnic Disparities in End-of-Life Care, by Jeffrey Laguna, University of Southern California

15) Unconventional Spaces, Unconventional Worship: An Analysis of Post-Modern Evangelical Christian Worship and Practice, by Richard Lawrence, University of Southern California
16) Mapping Cemeteries on the Margins: The Preservation of the Bull Hill Cemetery, by Nedra Lee, University of Texas at Austin

17) Using Contexts and Socioeconomic Status to Explain Racial and Gender Differences in Adolescent Attachment to School, by Constance A. Lindsay, Northwestern University

18) Interracial Dating and Endogamy among Mixed Race Youth in the U.S., by Krystale Littlejohn, Stanford University

21) Photography, Human Rights, and Social Change, by Michel Martinez, University of Southern California

22) Examining Proficiency in the Heritage Language among U.S. Born Second Generation Haitian-Americans, by Marie-Michelle Monereau-Merry, CUNY Graduate Center

23) Intra-Racial Politics and Attitudes: African Immigrants and the Politics of Engagement, by Blessing Okoroafor, University of Maryland at College Park

24) The Process of Developing a Risk and Needs Assessment Instrument for Offenders, by Sofia Peralta, University of Maryland at College Park

25) New Monasticism: Whose Movement is it?, by Beverly Pratt and Kendra Barber, University of Maryland at College Park

26) Suicide in Mainstream Media in Yucatan, Mexico: Perceptions of Mental Health and Indigeneity, by Beatriz Reyes-Cortes, University of California at Berkeley

28) Globalization and the Dilemma of Conflicting Models of National Parks in Developing Nations, by Steve Rodriguez, University of California at Los Angeles

30) Power, Privilege, and Stratification in Emily Post’s Etiquette: A Case Study, by Jamila Sinlao, University of California at Santa Barbara

31) Organizational Culture and Workplace Incivility, by Amber Smithwick, Texas A&M University
32) Retention of Women of Color in STEM Doctoral Programs, by Melissa Soto, Michigan State University

33) The Influence of Religiosity on Self-Reported Health Status and Obtaining a Routine Physical Exam: An Examination of Black-White Differences, by Charlotte Winston, Wayne State University

34) Transnational Political Engagement of Iranians in the Diaspora, by M. Tina Zarpour, University of Maryland at College Park

7:00-10:00 Continuous shuttle transport to/from Stubb’s Bar-BQ Restaurant and AT&T Center

7:30-9:30 Group Dinner at Stubb’s Bar-BQ Restaurant

FRIDAY APRIL 23rd

7:30-9:00 Breakfast in hotel [hallway near meeting rooms 105-106]

9:00-10:30 Concurrent Student Sessions 7 [Room 102] and 8 [Room 105]

Student Session 7: Racism and Classism [Room 102]

Presider: Kim Nickerson, University of Maryland at College Park

Papers/Presenters:
1) ‘From all Taint of Slavery’: The Challenges of Memory in Tanzania, by Erica Hill, University of Illinois
2) Somos Todos Locos?: Challenging Anti-Black Racism in Argentina, by Judith Anderson, University of Florida
3) The Psychological Effects of Symbolic Annihilation: What Absence in Media Tells Us About Ourselves, by Charisse Corsbie-Massay, University of Southern California
4) Jack and Jill Went Up the Hill and Left you Behind: Classism Within the African American Community, by Omari W. Keeles, University of Miami

Student Session 8: Family and Gender [Room 105]

Presider: Cheryl Judice, Northwestern University

Papers/Presenters:
1) To Do or Not To Do: Women’s Family Work is the Dilemma, by Monica Lugo, University of Texas at Austin
2) African American Middle Class Mothers’ Ideologies and Practices: Womanhood, Motherhood, and Parenting, by Dawn Dow, University of California at Berkeley
3) Black Masculinity: An Examination of the Strategies Used by Black Men to Deal with Pressure to Conform to Masculinity, by Allison Mathews, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
4) Disrupting Privilege? ‘Progressive’ White Heterosexual Men on Race, Sexual Orientation, and Gender, by Susan Ortiz, Ohio State University
10:45-12:00  Future Directions of NSF Program [Room 102], PI/DD Session

Presider:    Pat White, National Science Foundation

Presentation: Pat Campbell, Campbell-Kibler Associates

Discussion of NSF Plans: Pat White, National Science Foundation

10:45-12:00  Student Fellowship & Funding Workshop, All Students [Room 105]

Presiders:   Sarah Gamino, Stanford University
             Glenn Bracey, Texas A&M University

Panelists:   Fahmida Chowdhury, National Science Foundation
             Juanita Garcia, Texas A&M University
             Rebecca Hetey, Stanford University

12:00-1:30  Closing Student Lunch [Tejas Dining Room]

Closing PI/PD Lunch [The Carillon – Rooms 3 and 4]

Discussion of Future Program Plans (~12:45): Larry Henschen, Northwestern University
Suzanne Adair
Pennsylvania State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Dr. Adair is Assistant Dean of the Graduate School, Senior Director of the Office of Graduate Educational Equity Programs, and Director of the Office of Postdoctoral Affairs at Pennsylvania State University. She serves as the Principal Investigator on both of Penn State’s NSF AGEP grants. She has served as the Professional Development Coordinator in the Affirmative Action Office. Dr. Adair has experience in mental health, education, and social work and has served as Assistant Director for a school social work program in the Philadelphia Public School District and worked as a Family Therapist, Bereavement Counselor, and Manager of residential sites for mentally ill adults.

Basirat Alabi
University of California – Los Angeles / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Basirat Alabi is interested in the social perception and identity development of ethnic minority and immigrant youth. He earned a dual undergraduate degree in Psychology and Economics at the University of Alabama in 2005. He also earned a masters degree in Developmental Psychology at the University of California, Los Angeles in 2007, where he is now a doctoral candidate. Alabi's dissertation research takes a mixed method approach to examine the relation of intergroup perception and attitudes, achievement values, and identity contribute to the academic achievement of youth from immigrant and non-immigrant Black families.

Laurence Alexander
University of Florida / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Laurence B. Alexander is an Associate Dean of the Graduate School and Professor at the University of Florida. He serves as the Director of the Office of Graduate Minority Programs, providing oversight for several university-wide student professional development and support services and heading UF programs assisting underrepresented minority students, including National Science Foundation grants for the Atlantic Coast--Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences Alliance and the Bridge to the Doctorate, which is awarded through the Florida-Georgia Lois Stokes Alliance for Minority Participation. In 2007, Alexander served as the Principal Investigator for the Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement Program that UF received for funds to train and assist McNair Scholars.

Richard Andalon
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Dr. Richard Andalon, University of Southern California (USC), is an Assistant Dean in the Graduate School and Director of the McNair Scholars Program in the Office of Undergraduate Programs. Before joining USC, he served in various student services and academic affairs capacities at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). He has much experience as a mentor, advisor, and manager in programs serving diverse K-12 youth, undergraduates, and graduate students. His research interests include resilient students’ academic achievements. Dr. Andalon earned his bachelor’s degree in political science and his doctorate in educational administration and leadership, both from UCLA.

Judith Anderson
University of Florida / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Judy Anderson is a native of Liberia who grew up in Dallas, Texas. She first became interested in Black identities in Argentina as a Rotary Ambassadorial Scholar in 2000. She revisited Buenos Aires in 2005 for preliminary dissertation research on inter-ethnic relations between Africans and Afro-descendents in present day Argentina and in 2007 to conduct dissertation research. During this time she worked closely with Black community leaders, scholars, representatives of local and international state institutions, and other residents. She continues to be engaged with these communities and looks forward to helping them realize a variety of projects in the future.
Verónica Aravena
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Verónica C. Aravena is a Ph.D. candidate at The University of Texas at Austin. Her research focuses on Mexico/US migration, immigrant health and health disparities, and the links between adaptation and immigrant health behaviors. Her current research examines several aspects of the nativity and health association among children, including the relationship between physical environment and immigrant health, by examining community- and school-level characteristics, along with nativity status, race/ethnicity, and body weight, in U.S. children ages twelve and under. She currently serves as the Diversity Director of the NSF sponsored effort to increase the recruitment, retention, and graduation of Ph.D. students in the social and behavioral sciences at UT-Austin.

William Arguelles
University of Miami / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

William Arguelles is a third-year graduate student in the University of Miami’s Clinical Health Psychology Ph.D. program. His research focuses on physiological and psychosocial risk/resilient factors associated with cardiovascular disease outcomes, with a particular interest in employing advanced statistical methodologies to analyze data. William is supervised by Dr. Maria M. Llabre, a quantitative psychologist with expertise in the area of structural equation modeling, and by Drs. Neil Schneiderman and Frank Penedo, both health psychologists. William is currently involved in the multi-center Hispanic Community Health Study, the largest epidemiological study to date examining the health of Hispanics living in the US.

Valerie Ashby
University of North Caroline – Chapel Hill / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Dr. Valerie Sheares Ashby, Bowman and Gordon Gray Distinguished Term Professor of Chemistry, is the Director of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Alliance for Graduate Education and the Professoriate STEM and SBE programs. She received her B.A. and her Ph.D. degrees in chemistry from UNC-Chapel Hill. Ashby began her postdoctoral research at the Universitat Mainz, Germany in 1994 as an NSF and NATO Postdoctoral Fellow. She joined the department of chemistry at Iowa State University in January of 1996 and the department of chemistry at UNC-CH in August 2003.

Kendra Barber
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Kendra Barber is a third year student from Brooklyn, NY in the Sociology PhD program at the University of Maryland. Her research interests include religion and critical race theory. She is particularly interested in the contemporary social justice work being done by black churches, and how black churches address racism in a colorblind era.

Koren Bedeau
University of Miami / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Koren A. Bedeau is Assistant Dean in the Graduate School at the University of Miami. She earned her Ph.D. in Mass Communication and Media Studies from Howard University and the B.S. and M.A. from the University of Central Florida. Trinidad Carnival has been the focus of her interdisciplinary research, which explores connections between environmental health, sustainable tourism, and mass communication. She has ten years experience as a higher education administrator, managing and coordinating grants, research symposia and international study travel programs most of them geared toward low income, first generation and underrepresented minority college students.

Charles Betsey
Howard University / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Dr. Charles Betsey, Professor of Economics, came to Howard University as Chairman and professor in the Department of Economics in 1990 and assumed the position of Interim Dean of the Graduate School in August 2009. His research interests include public policy related to the development of underrepresented communities, and he currently serves as Co-Director of the Howard University Center on Race and Wealth, funded by the Ford Foundation. His recent publications include an edited volume on Historically Black Colleges and Universities. Dr. Betsey earned his B.A. in Economics and Spanish Literature and his Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Michigan.

Sarah Blanchard
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Sarah Blanchard is a second year, sociology graduate student at the University of Texas at Austin. Her primary research interests include migration and deportation as well as the role of secondary and post-secondary schools in stratifying opportunities, particularly for U.S. Latina/os and other underrepresented groups.

Glenn Bracey
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Glenn Bracey is a sociology doctoral candidate, specializing in race, political sociology, and religion. His current projects focus on Christian evangelicalism and sociology of the state.

Janet Broiles
University of Florida / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Janet P. Broiles is a Diversity Coordinator & SBE Program Manager for the University of Florida Graduate School. She manages the National Science Foundation grant for the Atlantic Coast-Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences Alliance. Based in the UF Office of Graduate Minority Programs, she manages Graduate School's Campus Visitation Program, the Florida Board of Education Summer Fellowship Program, and several university-wide student professional development and support services.

Lise Byars
The Ohio State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Lise Byars is a first year PhD student in the Department of Anthropology at The Ohio State University. She is interested in disasters, human rights, law, migration, ethnicity, identity, transnationalism, social networks and culture change. Byars received her MA at OSU in June 2009. Prior to that, she attended Washington University in St. Louis where she was a varsity swimmer, member of Pi Beta Phi, and received an AB and JD. Her hometown is Flagstaff, Arizona.

Patricia Campbell
Campbell-Kibler Associates, Inc.

Patricia B. Campbell, PhD, President of Campbell-Kibler Associates, Inc, has been involved in educational research and evaluation with a focus on issues of race/ethnicity and gender since the mid 1970's. Her BS, from LeMoyne College is in Mathematics, her MS, from Syracuse University, is in Instructional Technology and her PhD, also from Syracuse University is in Teacher Education. Dr. Campbell, formerly an associate professor of research, measurement and statistics at Georgia State University, has authored more than 100 publications including co-authoring Engagement, Capacity and Continuity: A Trilogy for Student Success and Upping the Numbers: Using Research-Based Decision Making to Increase Diversity in the Quantitative Sciences with Eric Jolly and Lesley Perlman.

Lee Carpenter
Pennsylvania State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Lee Carpenter is currently on staff at Pennsylvania State University’s Prevention Research Center where she acts in a variety of capacities including assisting faculty and research associates in developing and submitting grant proposals, assisting in the external dissemination of research results to policy makers and other audiences, and developing progress and annual reports, and IRB human subjects submissions and subsequent modifications.
Nathalie Castano
Wayne State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Nathalie Castano is a third year Ph.D. student in Industrial and Organizational Psychology at Wayne State University. Her primary area of research is leadership, specifically cross-cultural and gender differences. She currently holds an internship position at Denison Consulting, a consulting firm that focuses on organizational culture and leadership issues.

Jaime Chahin
Texas State University

Jaime Chahin, Professor and Dean of the College of Applied Arts at Texas State University. He has been at the university since 1987. Prior to that, he served as Associate Vice President of Human Resources and Senior Policy Analyst for the Select Committee for Higher Education of Texas. He has a B.A. in Sociology and Political Science from Texas A&I University and MSW & Ph.D. in Social Work and Education Administration from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Dr. Chahin has also completed postdoctoral studies at Harvard and the Salsburg Institute in Austria. His research interests involve immigrants, cultural and public policy issues that impact access to higher education.

Juanita Chinn
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Juanita is a PhD student in the Department of Sociology at the University of Texas at Austin. Her research interests include US Adult Mortality and Health. While at UT, she has been involved with research on the Race/Ethnicity crossover patterns seen in older adult mortality in the United States using the National Health Interview Survey matched to 1986-2002 follow-up mortality data from the Multiple Cause of Death File. Juanita has also served as a Research Intern on Dr. Robert Hummer's NIH funded project "Educational Differences in U.S. Adult Mortality." Juanita currently holds a ScB in Applied Mathematics: Psychology and an MA in Sociology.

Fahmida Chowdhury
National Science Foundation

Dr. Fahmida Chowdhury runs the National Science Foundation SBE Minority Postdoctoral Research Fellowship program. She joined NSF as Program Director for the Cross- Directorate Activities Program (CDA) in 2008. Prior to that, she served as Program Director for NSF Graduate Research Fellowship Program, and in 2006 for the NSF ADVANCE program. Before joining NSF, she was Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering at the University of Louisiana, Lafayette, LA, where she held the W. Hansen Hall and Mary O. Hall Endowed Chair in Computer Engineering. She has also held academic positions at Michigan Technological University, Southern University, Louisiana State University and Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology.

Gloria Chun
University of California – Berkeley / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Gloria Chun received her Ph.D. from UC Berkeley in the social sciences in 1993 and has taught mainly at Bard College where she was tenured in 2000 before coming to take up her current position at UC Berkeley. She has also taught briefly at Cal State Long Beach, Princeton University, and Columbia University. Her writings include the monograph, /Of Orphans and Warriors/ (Rutgers University Press, 2001). She resides with her family in Walnut Creek, California.

Charity Clay
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Charity Clay is a PhD student in the Department of Sociology at Texas A&M University originally from Minneapolis Minnesota. Her research focuses on the intersections of race, class, gender sexuality within Black Culture and the development and performance of identity. Her past and current research specifically looks at Hip Hop and Basketball. She completed her undergraduate education at DePaul University in Chicago as a double major in Accounting and Public Policy Urban Studies. In addition to her academic work she is also an emcee who teaches through Hip Hop not with her research but also in her own lyrics.

Deshonna Collier-Goubil
Howard University / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance
Deshonna Collier-Goubil is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Sociology & Anthropology at Howard University. Her research areas are Urban Sociology, Criminology and Race-Class/Gender studies. She holds a master’s degree in Theology from Fuller Graduate School, where she focused on black theologies and the urban church. Deshonna is a research assistant at the National Institute of Justice and her dissertation is titled “A Spatial Analysis of the Effects of Neighborhood Deprivation and Foreclosures on Domestic Violence”. Deshonna serves as Graduate Student Council president, is a member of the Organization of Graduate Sociologists and of the Edward Alexander Bouchet Graduate Honor Society.

David Colón Cabrera
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance
David Colón Cabrera has been working for several years with the topic of HIV/AIDS, using anthropological methods and analysis. As an undergraduate at the University of Puerto Rico, he worked with the illness narratives of serodiscordant heterosexual couples. Later, he assisted by conducting fieldwork in a project related to drug use and stress. At this conference, David will present his work as an intern in an applied research agency. His dissertation work will be aimed towards understanding patient-provider communication of people who live with HIV/AIDS and the health providers.

Karen Cook
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance
Professor Karen Cook is the Ray Lyman Wilbur Professor of Sociology and the current chair of the department. Her current research focuses on issues of trust in social relations and networks. She is also working on projects related to social justice, power-dependence relations and social exchange theory, in addition to collaborative research on physician-patient trust. She was a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences (1998-99) and was elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1996 and the National Academy of Sciences in 2007. She is Director of the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences at Stanford.

Charisse L’Pree Corsbie-Massay
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance
Charisse is a PhD candidate in Social Psychology. She earned degrees in Brain and Cognitive Science and Comparative Media Studies from MIT as well as a MA in Television Theory from USC's School of Cinematic Arts. She has worked with the MIT Media Lab, the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, and USC's Keck School of Medicine. She is the current Graduate Student in Residence for Diversity Outreach and a Graduate Advisor with USC's McNair Scholars Program.

Todd Couch
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance
Todd Couch is a PhD student in Sociology at Texas A&M University. He received his bachelor’s degree in Sociology from Midwestern State University in his hometown of Wichita Falls, TX. Todd’s research interests include bi/multiracial identity and Black social theory.

Nana Dawson-Andoh
Pennsylvania State University / GLASS SBES Alliance
Nana Dawson-Andoh was born in Ghana and raised in Canada and West Virginia. Nana received her B.A. from Bryn Mawr College in 2001 and her M.A. in Psychology from American University in Washington, D.C. in 2007. She is currently a second year graduate student in the Clinical Psychology doctorate program at The Pennsylvania State University.
Patrice Dickerson
The Ohio State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Patrice L. Dickerson is the Director of Diversity for the College of Arts & Sciences at The Ohio State University. In this position, she works closely with departments, faculty, administrators and students on issues of recruitment, admissions, retention and advocacy. She is also Co-PI and Program Director for the AGEP-SBES program at OSU. Prior to coming to Ohio State, she was an Assistant Professor of Sociology in the Department of African American Studies at the University of Cincinnati.

Dawn Dow
University of California – Berkeley / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Dawn M. Dow is a Ph.D candidate in the Department of Sociology of the University of California, Berkeley. Prior to entering the Berkeley’s doctoral program Dawn earned a B.A. from Bryn Mawr College and a J.D. from Columbia University, School of Law, after which she practiced law for several years. Dawn’s dissertation research examines African-American middle class mothers' ideologies and practices of womanhood and motherhood and how they reproduce middle class status for their children. Her research interests focus on the intersections of gender, race, family, sociology of law, and social inequality.

Jessica Dunning-Lozano
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Jessica L. Dunning-Lozano is a Ph.D. student in sociology at the University of Texas at Austin. She currently studies Disciplinary Alternative Education Programs in the State of Texas, and the intersections of race, gender, class, and citizenship. She holds a Master of Arts in the Social Sciences from the University of Chicago where she researched continuation high school education in the State of California and conducted ethnography at a continuation high school in the San Francisco Bay Area. Jessica is originally from Northern California, where she completed her undergraduate degree in Sociology and Geography at the University of California, Berkeley.

Heather Edwards
Howard University / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Heather Edwards is a doctoral candidate at Howard University and a Preparing Future Faculty Fellow at the University of Texas at Arlington. She plans to graduate in Fall 2010.

Elizabeth Farfán
University of California – Berkeley / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Elizabeth Farfán is a PhD Candidate in the Joint Medical Anthropology Program at UC Berkeley and UC San Francisco. Her research focuses are in critical theory of the body, illness, and medicine; critical race theories; African Diaspora studies; slave studies and runaway slave communities (quilombos) in Brazil; urban anthropology and productions of national identities; phenomenology; ethnographic film production and theory. Elizabeth's dissertation research is based in Brazil, and deals with the current social and political process of legally registering the descendants of runaway slaves for the purpose of redistributing land and social rights.

Camille Feanny
University of Florida / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Camille Feanny is a seasoned television producer, social scientist and consultant with expertise in the media and academic industries. She served as the global Environment Producer at CNN nine years, before assuming an Editorial role for network programs. A PhD Candidate in Anthropology at the University of Florida, her research explores the socioeconomic implications of the orphan crisis in the Americas. Ms. Feanny holds masters degrees in Marine Affairs and Policy, and International Relations from the University of Miami, a bachelor's degree in Environmental Studies from Florida International University, and a diploma in International Development and Humanitarian Assistance from Fordham.
David Flores
University of Michigan / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

David Flores received his Associate of Arts degree from Southwestern Community College in 2000. He later transferred to the University of California, Berkeley where he earned a B.A. in sociology in 2003. David is now a doctoral student at the University of Michigan and will complete his dissertation summer of 2011. He is a recipient of the American Sociological Association’s Minority Fellowship Program, the Ford Pre-doctoral Dissertation Fellowship, and the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship Program. His poster presentation is based on a research grant from Sociologists Without Borders and analyzes telemarketing labor unions in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Jerry Flores
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Jerry Flores is a Ph.D. student in the Department of Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara. His dissertation research analyzes the experiences and pedagogical practices of instructors working in female juvenile detention facilities in California. This project also explores how incarcerated girls and the instructors who teach them negotiate gender inside of correctional facilities. His other areas of research include prison ethnography and studies of race and crime.

Henry Frierson
University of Florida / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Henry Frierson, is the Associate Vice President and Dean of the Graduate School at the University of Florida. Previously at the University of North Carolina as a Professor in the School of Medicine and later as Professor of Educational Psychology and Director of the Research Education Support Program to support minority undergraduate and graduate students to pursue research. Frierson also spent seven years at Chapel Hill as an Associate Dean of the Graduate School. At Florida, in addition to working toward further enhancing the graduate programs, he seeks to boost graduate student support and increase the number of enrolled underrepresented students.

Bernadette Gailliard
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Bernadette M. Gailliard is a doctoral student at the University of California Santa Barbara studying Organizational Communication. Bernadette's research focuses on the ways in which individuals negotiate their various identities and group memberships in organizational contexts. She is particularly interested in understanding the organizational experiences of those from traditionally underrepresented groups (such as women and ethnic minorities). She hopes that her research will be useful in creating future opportunities for members of these populations.

Sarah Gamino
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Sarah Gamino is the Diversity Director for the EDGE-SBE program at Stanford. She also works with Student Services at the Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity. She is from Gilroy, California and earned her Bachelor’s degree in Sociology from U.C. Berkeley. She then moved to San Francisco and worked at several educational programs including the Hispanic Scholarship Fund and Making Waves. She attended San Francisco State University and earned a Master’s in Education with a concentration in Equity and Social Justice. Sarah’s goal is to continue to work to improve opportunities in higher education for under-represented students.

San Juanita García
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Juanita’s experience as a second-generation Mexican-American, has drawn her to research that focuses on the intersections of race/ethnicity/class/gender, immigration, mental health, social psychology, drug use, and deviance. She received her B.A. degree at Sam Houston State University double majoring in Criminal Justice and Spanish with a minor in Sociology. Currently, Juanita is a doctoral student in Sociology at Texas A&M University. She is an American Sociological Association Minority Fellowship Program Fellow, an American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education Graduate Alumni, a recipient of the Grow Your Own Scholarship Program, and a recipient of the Hispanic Scholarship Fund-KLASS Time scholarship.

Irene Godoy
University of California – Los Angeles / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Irene Godoy is a second year graduate student in Biological Anthropology at the University of California - Los Angeles. She received her B.A. in Psychology and in Environmental Studies at the University of Pennsylvania in 2005. Currently, her main research interests are in mate choice, kin recognition, and reproductive skew in capuchin monkeys.

Gloria González-López
The University of Texas at Austin

Gloria González-López is Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Texas at Austin. She received a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Southern California in 2000. She conducts sexuality research with Mexican and Mexican immigrant populations, and teaches graduate and undergraduate courses on sexuality, gender and society, and qualitative methods and sexuality research. She is the author of "Erotic Journeys: Mexican Immigrants and Their Sex Lives" (University of California Press, 2005). She is currently conducting sociological research on the sexual, romantic, and life experiences of adult women and men with histories of incestuous relationships and who currently live in the largest urbanized areas in Mexico.

Mario Guerrero
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Mario Guerrero is a fourth-year Political Science PhD candidate at the University of California, Santa Barbara. His research focuses on elections and political behavior. He is working on two sets of projects: the first on online social networking and the second on campaign donations.

Tod Hamilton
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Tod Hamilton’s research examines the pathways through which race, ethnicity, and nativity impact various aspects of health in the U.S. and in other countries. His current work evaluates nativity differences in adult health among blacks within the United States. Specifically, this work evaluates: 1) the factors that explain initial differences in health and health trajectories among subgroups of black immigrants within the U.S.; 2) the role that country of origin conditions play in explaining the health of black immigrants; and 3) the factors that explain divergent generational patterns in health among black immigrants in the U.S.

Lenwood Hayman
Wayne State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Lenwood Hayman is a PhD candidate in Social Psychology at Wayne State University and is on-pace to complete his degree in August of 2010. Lenwood’s research interests have focused on racial/ethnic identity development, perceptions of racial discrimination, racism-related stress, and psychological/physiological responses to racial discrimination-related stress. These interests have recently culminated in the desire to study health-disparities as they occur in African American populations. Lenwood's passion for teaching, mentoring, and scholarly research has inspired him to pursue a career as a professor at a research-oriented institution upon completion of his training.

Lawrence Henschen
Northwestern University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Prof. Henschen received his BA, MA and PhD degrees in Mathematics all from The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1966, 1968 and 1971 respectively. He has been employed at Northwestern University... since 1971. His research interests include wireless sensor networks, universal access in human-computer interaction, and automated reasoning and its applications to databases. He has graduated 70 PhD students. He currently is an active participant in two AGEP alliances — the Midwest Crossroads STEM/AGEP and the GLASS SBES/AGEP — and the PI on an NIH/NIGMS IRACDA grant.

Rebecca Hetey
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Rebecca Hetey is a third year PhD student in social psychology at Stanford University. Her work broadly focuses on issues pertaining to race, particularly exploring the psychological consequences of holding different theories about whether race is primarily biological as opposed to socially constructed. Rebecca was recently awarded a Ford Foundation Predoctoral Diversity Fellowship. She is also a fellow of Enhancing Diversity in Graduate Education in the Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences (EDGE-SBE). Rebecca served as an Edward A. Bouchet fellow while at Yale University. She graduated from Yale with honors in psychology. She received her MA in psychology from Stanford.

Erica Hill
University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign / GLASS SBES Alliance

Erica Alane Hill is a PhD candidate in the Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, where she also earned a Masters in African Studies in 2006. She is currently completing her dissertation project “Bearing the Mark, Bearing the Costs: The Production and Consumption of Slave Memories and Social Relations in Coastal Tanzania, 1922-2008”, a qualitative study which investigates the ways in which memories of slavery and emancipation inform identity construction and the negotiation of social relations in the former slaving port town of Bagamoyo, Tanzania.

LaBarron Hill
The Ohio State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

LaBarron Hill is a 4th year doctoral student in the Ohio State University Clinical/Health Psychology graduate program. He completed his Bachelor's degree at Tuskegee University in 2006 with a major in Psychology and a minor in Philosophy.

Duquann Hinton
Graduate Center, CUNY / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

There are two levels to Duquann’s academic interests. On one general level he is interested in how personality, creativity, critical consciousness, and human development is constrained and unencumbered; imprisoned and freed by oppression. On a cultural level he is interested in the historical experiences of black people and the various ways in which they express selves as unique, imaginative, and thoughtful in the midst of despite pronounced obstacles. A native of Brooklyn, New York, Duquann has received a Bachelor's degree from John Jay College of Criminal Justice. Currently, he is pursuing a doctoral degree in Psychology at The Graduate Center, CUNY.

Heidi Holder
Graduate Center, CUNY / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Heidi Holder is a doctoral candidate and AGEP Scholar in Education at the Graduate Center, CUNY. Ms. Holder is the former Director of Education at the Museum for African Art in New York. Her research interests include: the formation and implementation of state education policies aimed at managing diverse populations; multicultural curriculum and pedagogy; and multicultural teacher training. Ms. Holder is currently researching the implementation of social integration policies in public schools of Trinidad and Tobago in an attempt to draw lessons about the best ways to formulate and implement these types of policies in other multi-ethnic territories.
Robert A. Hummer
The University of Texas at Austin / EGE-SBES Alliance

Robert A. Hummer is Professor and Chairperson in the Department of Sociology and Faculty Research Associate of the Population Research Center at The University of Texas at Austin. His research and teaching interests center on health and mortality trends and patterns in the United States, with particular attention given to racial/ethnic minority groups and immigrants. He has published over 75 peer-reviewed journal articles and chapters on this and related topics, and his research work is currently funded by the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. He currently serves as the Principal Investigator of the NSF sponsored effort to increase the recruitment, retention, and graduation of Ph.D. students in the social and behavioral sciences at UT-Austin.

Tiffany Joseph
University of Michigan / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Tiffany D. Joseph is a Sociology doctoral candidate at the University of Michigan. She is a Ford Predoctoral Fellow and Fulbright Fellow (Brazil 2007-2008) and received other distinguished awards. Her teaching and research interests include: comparative frameworks of race in the Americas, how Latin American and Caribbean immigrants adapt to the US racial system, and the impact of immigration on the US racial system. Joseph is completing her dissertation, which examines how US immigration changes how Brazilian return migrants think about race. Originally from Memphis, TN, Joseph received a BA in Sociology and Ethnic Studies with honors from Brown University.

Santiago Juarez
Northwestern University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Santiago Juarez is a student of archaeology from Northwestern University with a concentration in Classic Maya studies (A.D. 200-900). His primary focus is on the construction of ancient communities and the analysis of everyday non-elite people. His dissertation work will add to a burgeoning body of literature that focuses on the majority of the population, as opposed to the ruling class. He currently works in the state of Chiapas Mexico, with Classic period sites found in Lacandon Maya territory.

Cheryl Judice
Northwestern University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Cheryl Y. Judice holds a Ph.D. in sociology from Northwestern University (2005). She is currently the director of Northwestern’s two National Science Foundation AGEP programs. She has taught sociology, social psychology, and African American studies at Lake Forest College, Northeastern Illinois University and Northwestern University. Her research focuses on the intersections of race, class, and gender. Her book, Interracial Marriages between Black Women and White Men, was published in December 2008. Previously, she was director of a community based adult educational organization in Evanston, Illinois. She has served or volunteers on numerous Illinois boards concerned with cultural diversity and inclusion.

Omari Keeles
University of Miami / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Omari W. Keeles is a second year doctoral student in the counseling psychology program at the University of Miami. He received his B.A. psychology from Howard University, an M.A. in Public Health from The George Washington University, a master’s of art and a master’s of education in Psychological Counseling from Teachers College Columbia University. Omari’s current work and interests include classism within the African American community; the depiction of Blacks in the media beginning with the Cosby Show to the present; and the psychological well-being of minorities who attend elite schools via programs like Prep-for-Prep., A Better Chance, etc.
Zebulon Kendrick
Temple University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Zeb Kendrick is the Associate Dean of the Graduate School and a Professor of Kinesiology in the College of Health Professions at Temple University. His educational background is varied; a BA in History, MA in Kinesiology, PhD in Kinesiology with an emphasis in Integrative Physiology/Metabolism, and a post-doctoral experience in Pharmacology. Zeb has published over 70 research papers and chapters in books. He has mentored more than 20 doctoral student dissertations and 50 master theses and has served as the Chairperson of the Temple University IRB for the Social and Behavioral Sciences for over 25 years and provided numerous workshops for Temple University and professional organizations.

Jeff Laguna
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Jeff Laguna is a second year Ph.D. student in Gerontology at the University of Southern California. He is interested in studying all aspects of end-of-life and palliative care. Specifically, his research interests include healthcare disparities, family support services, grief/loss therapy, and religion/spirituality at the end of life. Jeff has received research training in quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods designs as well as served as a research assistant on multiple studies addressing end of life issues.

Richard Lawrence
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Richard Lawrence's primary areas of interest are the intersection of Christianity and popular culture as well as Afro-American rhetorical criticism. Richard holds a BA in mass communication from California State University, Dominguez Hills and a master's degree in communication management from USC. Prior to entering the program, Richard worked as a technical writer in the automotive industry. A Southern California native, Richard, also known as the Scooting Scholar, loves to spend his spare time "urban exploring" throughout greater Los Angeles and writes a personal blog (thescootingscholar.typepad.com) about his exploits.

Nedra Lee
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Nedra K Lee is a fourth year graduate student in the department of Anthropology at The University of Texas at Austin. Her academic interests include historical archaeology and the African Diaspora.

Constance Lindsay
Northwestern University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Constance A. Lindsay is a doctoral candidate in the program of human development and social policy at Northwestern University. Her research interests include racial and gender disparities in education outcomes. She has a M.A. in public policy from Georgetown University, and a B.A. in economics from Duke University. She is originally from Washington, DC.

Krystale Littlejohn
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Krystale Littlejohn is a third year doctoral student in the Department of Sociology at Stanford University. She is interested in race and ethnicity, sexual behavior and the sociology of the family. Alongside her examination of dating patterns among multiracial youth, she is also revising a manuscript on hormonal birth control use and discontinuation due to dissatisfaction with side effects.

Camonia Long
Howard University / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Camonia R. Long is a PhD candidate in Sociology with a focus in Medical Sociology at Howard University, Department of Sociology and Anthropology. Originally from Houston, Texas, Camonia has developed a strong passion for health disparities research. Her current research interests include addressing social determinants of health, race and gender issues in health, women’s health and health among young adults. In her dissertation she examines perceptions of susceptibility and severity toward breast cancer and mammography among young women in Generation Y. Camonia is a certified health education specialist (CHES) and currently holds membership in the American Sociological Association (ASA).

Laura López-Sanders
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Laura López-Sanders is a Ph.D. Candidate in the Department of Sociology and a Doctoral Fellow in the Diversifying Academia Recruiting Excellence program at Stanford University, where she is the Assistant Director for the National Science Foundation program Enhancing Diversity for Graduate Education in the Social Behavioral and Economic Sciences (EDGE-SBE). Her research focuses on immigrant incorporation and race relations in “new” immigrant gateways. She has received several awards and fellowships, including an SBE Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grant and two American Sociological Association awards for Outstanding Graduate Student Papers from the Race, Gender, and Class section and the Latino section.

Monica Lugo
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Betsabeth Monica Lugo (Monica) is a fourth year graduate student of sociology at UT Austin. Her research interests are in gender and work, particularly carework and work performed by women in what can be seen as an intersection between the private and the public spheres. She also examines how globalization processes shape women's lives and their conceptions of gender and race.

Jorge Marquez
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign / GLASS SBES Alliance

Jorge Marquez was born in El Paso, Texas to Mexican immigrant parents. He is the first member of his family to graduate from high school and college and to attend graduate school. He earned a bachelor’s degree in psychology from the University of Texas at El Paso and is currently pursuing a PhD in Clinical/Community Psychology at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Jorge’s goal is to become a clinical scientist specializing in developing, adapting, and delivering culturally appropriate mental health services to Latino families.

Raquel Marquez
The University of Texas – San Antonio

Dr. Marquez is an Associate Professor and Department Chair of Sociology at The University of Texas - San Antonio. She obtained her B.S.A.S. at Southwest Texas State University, and her M.A. and Ph.D. at The University of Texas at Austin. Dr. Marquez’s primary research interests include: migration and immigration to the U.S./Mexico border, race and ethnic relations, Latino studies, qualitative research methods, and community development and neighborhood formation.

Michel Martinez
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Michel Martinez is a photographer and doctoral student of political science at the University of Southern California investigating the ways photography intersects politics in the human rights context. This often involves examining how photographs depict and convey messages about suffering—for example, suffering borne of environmental degradation, police excesses, genocide, war, torture, or incarceration. She focuses on how photographs may contribute to our understanding of political issues, enhance human rights campaigns, develop a sense of solidarity, or encourage political action. Further, she is curious about how photography may be used by subjugated populations as a tool of resistance and empowerment.
Allison Mathews
University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance
Allison Mathews is a doctoral student in Sociology at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Her master's thesis was entitled "Black Masculinity: An Examination of the Strategies used by Black Men to Deal with Pressure to Conform to Masculinity." She works with LinCS 2 Durham to consider HIV/AIDS research and prevention in the Black community with community members in Durham. She is a member of the Men's Health Research Lab at UNC's Gillings School of Global Public Health where she is collaborating on a paper, "Does Religious Coping Moderate the Impact of Racism-Related Stress on Depressive Symptoms among African American Men?"

Earl Merritt
Pennsylvania State University / GLASS SBES Alliance
Earl F. Merritt is the Director for Multicultural Equity Programs in the College of the Liberal Arts at The Pennsylvania State University. His responsibilities entail the development and implementation of strategies designed to increase the recruitment and retention of traditionally underrepresented students in higher education. He also lectures in African and African American Studies.

Marie-Michelle Monéreau-Merry
Graduate Center, CUNY / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance
Marie-Michelle Monéreau-Merry is a certified speech-language pathologist. After obtaining a masters degree in communication sciences and disorders at Howard University, she provided speech, language, and swallowing remediation, predominately to the birth to five populations, prior to pursuing a doctoral degree at the Graduate Center City University of New York. Her area of interest is in second language acquisition throughout the life span. As a member of the neurolinguistic lab she has engaged in projects such as the production of idioms in the aging brain. Marie-Michelle’s dissertation will examine the organization of languages in the bilingual brain among heritage speakers of Haitian-Creole.

Isabel Montemayor
Michigan State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance
Isabel Montemayor is a doctoral student in the Department of Anthropology at Michigan State University. She earned her M.A. in Latin American Studies from the University of Texas at Austin in 2006 and a second M.A. from Michigan State University in 2009. Her area of study is medical anthropology. She is interested in transnational health maintenance strategies of immigrants, unequal access to health care and issues of Latino health. She is currently conducting research in the US and Mexico regarding access to health resources for immigrant communities.

Jean Morrison
University of Southern California / EDGE-SBES Alliance
Jean Morrison is the Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and Graduate Programs. She has primary responsibility for oversight of the university’s academic programs and the USC Graduate School. The Office of Undergraduate Programs and the Office of Continuing Education and Summer Programs report to Vice Provost Morrison. Morrison oversees many important university committees including the University Committee on Curriculum (UCOC), the Committee on Academic Policies and Procedures (CAPP), the Provost's Oversight Committee for Athletic Academic Affairs (OCAAA), and the University Committee on Academic Review (UCAR). She received her Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, her M.S. from the University of Georgia and her B.A. from Colgate University.

Rabiah Muhammad
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance
Rabiah Muhammad was born and raised in Phoenix, Arizona and is the second youngest of 14 children. She was raised by a very strong African American mother who taught her to be proud of her Islamic heritage. Rabiah received her B.A. in Psychology and is now pursuing her PhD in Organizational Psychology at the University of Maryland, College Park. Her research interests include mentorship, social networking, leadership, nepotism, diversity and culture. Her goal is to have a thorough understanding of how to increase minorities’ success in the workplace.

Steve Murdock
Rice University

Steve Murdock (Ph.D., Sociology, 1975, University of Kentucky) teaches and does research in the areas of social and applied demography, migration, rural sociology, and socioeconomic impact assessment. Murdock is known for his work in both assessing the effects of demographic change on socioeconomic change and his work in assessing the impacts of large-scale developments on the economic, demographic, public service, fiscal, and social/cultural dimensions of small population areas. He has authored or edited 12 books and more than 150 articles and papers in these areas. He served as the first official State Demographer of Texas and headed the Texas State Data Center and Texas Population Estimates and Projections Program for more than 25 years.

Kim Nickerson
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Dr. Kim Nickerson joined the College of Health and Human Performance in August of 2006 as an Assistant Dean for Diversity. He also holds a primary appointment as an Assistant Dean in the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences. Before joining the University of Maryland, Dr. Nickerson was Director of the American Psychological Association's Minority Fellowship Program (MFP). His research interests include the general field of health disparities and the ethical, legal, and social implications (ELSI) of genomics - especially as they relate to ethnic minority communities. Dr. Nickerson has served on the National Advisory Council for the National Human Genome Research Institute and also as a member of the NHGRI ELSI Research Advisors Group.

Antonio Nuñez
Michigan State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Dr. Antonio Nunez received his Ph.D. in Neuroscience from Florida State University and after doing post-doctoral work at U.Mass Amherst, he joined the Psychology Department of Michigan State University. He is currently Professor of Psychology and Neuroscience and Associate Dean of the Graduate School of Michigan State University.

Blessing Okoroafor
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Blessing Okoroafor is a doctoral student in Government and Politics at the University of Maryland, College Park. Her research interests include race/ethnicity, identity, immigration policy, and political behavior with emphasis on examining the roles that group interests and group identity play in shaping of public policy, public opinion, mass attitudes and coalition building.

Melvin Oliver
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Melvin L. Oliver is Dean of Social Sciences and Professor of Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Previously, Dr. Oliver was Vice-President of the Asset Building and Community Development Program at the Ford Foundation and a UCLA professor of sociology for 18 years. Dr. Oliver is co-author of Black Wealth/White Wealth: A New Perspective on Racial Inequality. He earned his B.A. at William Penn College and M.A. and Ph.D. at Washington University. Dr. Oliver serves on boards of the McCune Foundation, National Poverty Center, Urban Institute, and William T. Grant Foundation and is a Sociological Research Association member.
Susan Ortiz
The Ohio State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Susan Ortiz is a PhD candidate at The Ohio State University. Her main interests revolve around ideology, gender, race, sexual orientation, theory, stratification, and work. Her previous work on labor market discrimination was recently published in The Sociological Quarterly. Her dissertation examines the ideological framework of progressive white heterosexual men. More specifically, it looks at the development of their ideological views, the formal and informal actions and interactions that occur because of those views, and whether or not they recognize intersections across and between various dimensions of stratification—specifically race, gender, and sexual orientation.

Sofía Peralta
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Sofía Peralta is pursuing her PhD the University of Maryland - College Park. Her fields of interest include corrections, reentry, evidenced-based corrections, risk/needs assessment tools, and immigration. In the past she has gained research experience working with multiple agencies including the Research Triangle Institution, National Institution of Justice, and Gateways Residential Re-entry Center.

Beverly Pratt
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Beverly Pratt received both her B.A. and M.S. in Sociology from Texas A&M University where she focused on the sociology of race/ethnicity. She is currently pursuing her PhD at the University of Maryland - College Park where she specializes in theory and social psychology. Her research, writing and community-building interests focus on intersectionality, emotions, and religion with social justice. Beverly has worked at a non-profit mental health advocacy organization in Austin, TX, interned at the Department of Justice and the U.S. Census Bureau in Washington, DC, and is currently a volunteer for a non-profit advocacy organization in Washington, DC.

Karen Ravago
University of California – Los Angeles / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Karen Ravago is the Program Director for the National Science Foundation's Alliance for Graduate Education and the Professoriate (NSF AGEP) and the University of California Diversity Initiative for Graduate Study in the Social Sciences (UC DIGSSS) at the University of California, Los Angeles. Prior to her current role as Manager for Outreach and Diversity Initiatives for UCLA's Graduate Division, her experience within higher education also includes multicultural affairs, career counseling, and graduate/professional school admissions. She is completing an Ed.D. in Educational Leadership at the University of Southern California and holds an M.A. in Higher Education Administration from Boston College.

Beatriz Reyes-Cortes
University of California – Berkeley / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Beatriz M. Reyes-Cortes is a PhD Candidate at the University of California, Berkeley. Her dissertation, titled "Adoring our Wounds: Suicide, Prevention, and the Maya in Yucatan, Mexico", is a study of suicide as cultural artifact used by all social participants—including the suicides themselves—to comment on, recreate, and constrain the many meanings of society, identity, and social hierarchy.

Deborah Richie
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign / GLASS SBES Alliance

Executive Assistant Dean Deborah Richie administers the campus assistantship and fellowship policies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. She also works with the Fellowship Board to manage campus-level graduate fellowship programs. Richie is the Principal Investigator on the National Science Foundation Alliance for Graduate Education and the Professoriate (AGEP) grant, and serves as the Institutional representative for a number of externally funded fellowship programs. Further, Richie is currently president of the Illinois Association of Graduate Schools (IAGS) and Review Panel Chair for the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Career Development Grant program. Richie received her Ed.D. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Brittany Rico
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Brittany Rico was born in Houston, Texas and raised in the Rio Grande Valley, where she now calls Alamo, Texas home. She graduated from Our Lady of the Lake University with a BA in sociology and minor in anthropology. As an undergraduate she participated in the McNair scholars program and conducted research concerning Hispanic undergraduate achievement. Currently, Brittany is a doctoral student in the sociology department at Texas A&M University. Her research interests include demography, race and ethnic relations, social inequality, gender, and urban sociology. She aspires to one day become a sociology professor.

Steve Rodriguez
University of California / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Steve Rodriguez is a Ph.D. candidate in the department of History at UCLA. His research interests concern the social and economic history of national parks in Southeast Asia.

Brandi Rollins
Pennsylvania State University / GLASS SBES Alliance

Brandi Rollins is a NIH NRSA predoctoral fellow completing her graduate study in the Department of Human Development of Family Studies and Center for Childhood Obesity Research at The Pennsylvania State University. Under the guidance of Dr. Leann Birch, Ms. Rollins is currently completing her dissertation on the influence of parental restrictive feeding practices on children’s food preferences and reinforcement/reward. Broadly, her research interests include understanding how contextual, behavioral, and neurocognitive factors interactively influence the development of food preferences and food reward among children, ultimately to influence the development of community-based health promotion programs.

Rogelio Sáenz
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Rogelio Sáenz received a B.S.W from Pan American University and an M.A. and Ph.D. from Iowa State University. He is a Professor in the Department of Sociology at Texas A&M University. He is also a Fellow of the Carsey Institute at the University of New Hampshire. Rogelio’s research focuses on the areas of demography, immigration, sociology of Latina/os, and inequality. He is a co-editor of “Latinas/os in the United States: Changing the Face of America” (Population Reference Bureau and the Russell Sage Foundation, 2004). His articles have appeared in a variety of journals including Demography, International Migration Review, and Journal of Marriage and the Family.

Marisa Sanchez
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Marisa Sanchez has a B.A. in Sociology from the University of Texas at El Paso, and is currently a graduate student working on her M.A. in Sociology at Texas A&M University. Her interests are in race and ethnicity with a particular and critical focus on Latina/o experiences in the U.S.

Terri Scandura
University of Miami / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Terri Scandura has been Dean of the Graduate School at the University of Miami since 2007. In 2008, she was named the Academic Director of the Johnson A. Edowsonwan Leadership Institute in the School of Business Administration. She has a PhD from the University of Cincinnati. Scandura was an Assistant Professor of Management at the University of Kentucky and is currently Professor of Management in the School of Business Administration at the University of Miami. Research interest include leadership, mentorship, and applied research methods. She has visited Nagoya University in Japan, Monash University in Australia and the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology in China.

Beth Schneider
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Beth Schneider is Professor of Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She just completed seven years as Associate Dean of Social Sciences. Currently, she is Director of the McNair Scholars Program and the Co-Principal Investigator for the NSF/SBE alliance, UC-DIGSSS. Her research areas are sexuality and gender, social movements, and health. Schneider’s books include The Social Context of AIDS and Women Resisting AIDS: Feminist Strategies of Empowerment. She has served on the Editorial Board of the international journal Sexualities, as the Editor of Gender & Society, and is chair of the Sexualities Section of the American Sociological Association.

Jamila Sinlao
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Jamila Sinlao is a graduate student in the Department of Sociology at UCSB. Originally from the San Francisco Bay Area, her research utilizes discourse analysis to examine the ideologies and dominant discourses in 1920s wedding etiquette. Her areas of interest include culture, feminist theory, and social stratification.

Gail Smith
Graduate Center CUNY / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Gail Smith received her Ph.D. in classical philology from New York University. Since 1999 she has served as Principal Investigator/Program Director for two CUNY-wide graduate education programs: the National Institutes of Health/Bridges to the Doctorate Program and the National Science Foundation Alliance for Graduate Education and the Professoriate (AGEP) Program. From 1991-2007 she directed the CUNY Pipeline Program for Careers in College Teaching and Research. Dr. Smith combines her commitment to their mission with research in classical studies as Professor of Classics at Brooklyn College, were she is serving as Acting Chair of the Department for spring 2010.

Amber Smittick
Texas A&M University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Amber Smittick graduated with a B.S. in Psychology from Abilene Christian University in December 2008. Currently, she is a first-year PhD student in Industrial-Organizational Psychology at Texas A&M University and works in the Gender and Organizations Lab where her research focuses on workplace incivility and organizational culture.

Melissa Soto
Michigan State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Melissa "Missy" Soto is a first year doctoral student in the Higher, Adult, and Lifelong Education program at Michigan State University. Her interest in retaining and advancing underrepresented minorities in the STEM fields comes from her own experiences as a former woman in science. Missy received her Bachelor's in Biology from the University of California, Davis, and her Master's in Environmental Science and Management from the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Abigail Stewart
University of Michigan / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Abigail J. Stewart is Sandra Schwarz Tangri Professor of Psychology and Women’s Studies at the University of Michigan, associate dean at the Rackham Graduate School, and director of the ADVANCE Program at the University of Michigan. Dr. Stewart has published many scholarly articles and several books on the psychology of women, personality, and adaptation to personal and social changes. Her current research includes comparative analyses of longitudinal studies of educated women’s lives and personalities; a collaborative study of race, gender and generation in the graduates of a Midwest high school; and research on gender and science and technology.

Juan Carlos Suárez Serrato
University of California – Berkeley / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Juan Carlos Suárez Serrato is a PhD Candidate in Economics at UC Berkeley. His fields of specialization are Public Economics, Microeconomic Theory, and Experimental Economics. His research focuses on the conceptual and empirical investigation of the interaction between tax distortions and incentives with issues related to asymmetric information and behavioral biases. His work spans the design and incidence of individual and corporate taxes with a special focus on entrepreneurial firms. He received an undergraduate degree in Mathematics and Theoretical Economics from Trinity University in San Antonio, TX.

Orlando Taylor
Howard University / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

Orlando L. Taylor is the PI for the Howard University partner in the Atlantic Coast AGEP-SBE Alliance. Dr. Taylor is Dean and Professor Emeritus at the University and a national leader in graduate education and his discipline of communication science and disorders. He is the author of numerous books, book chapters, monographs and journal articles.

Czarina Thelen
The University of Texas at Austin / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Czarina Aggabao Thelen is a graduate student of social anthropology at the University of Texas at Austin. She received her B.A. from Brown University in International Development Studies in 2000. She was a 2005 Fulbright Scholar to Guatemala. Last summer, she was a graduate student researcher with The Caribbean Central American Research Council (CCARC), a collaborative research and visioning project involving indigenous and Afro-descendant rights in Central America (led by Dr. Edmund T. Gordon and Dr. Charles Hale of UT). Based on her research on Maya political empowerment, she re-conceptualizes the major currents of the Maya movement in Guatemala.

Crystal Turner
Wayne State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Crystal Turner is currently the Diversity Program Coordinator for Wayne State University Graduate School. She is the Chairperson for the WSU Diversity Programs Working Group who members collaborate to focus on student recruiting and retention efforts. Crystal has articles published in professional journals that include topics on CVs/resumes development, effective techniques to find employment, and designing electronic portfolios. She oversees tuition award programs including King-Chavez-Parks (KCP) Future Faculty Fellowships and McNair Graduate Scholarships. Crystal has 13 years experience working in higher education and her academic background is in the Sociology and Counseling programs.

Cristóbal Valencia Ramirez
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign / GLASS SBES Alliance

C. Valencia Ramirez’s main academic interests are the role grassroots organizations play in processes of state formation and establishing democracy; the strategies used by and experiences of race-based and poor-class organizations in the struggle to change unequal relationships of power; and how to best represent processes of social change. Current research focuses on the subjective experiences of Chávez supporters, bolivarian activists, and Afrovenezuelans living primarily in Caracas barrios. He participates in the Advanced Seminar of Chicano Research and the Chicana/o Latina/o Association for Autonomous Anthropology, non-institutional sites of collective knowledge production. He is seeking post-doc opportunities and tenure track employment.
Ali Valenzuela
Stanford University / EDGE-SBES Alliance

Ali A. Valenzuela is a Ph.D. candidate in Political Science at Stanford University, where he studies American and comparative politics. His research interests include minority group attitudes and political behavior, immigrant identity and political socialization, U.S. voter mobilization field experiments, and the connection between American churchgoing and political behavior. His dissertation examines the political and institutional determinants of Latino group consciousness in American politics, with empirical chapters on the effects of churchgoing, media coverage, representation and local context on strength of group consciousness. Experimental evidence will help uncover mechanisms linking group identity to political behavior.

Mark Wardell
Wayne State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Mark Wardell is the Associate Provost & Dean of the Graduate School at Wayne State University. He also is a Professor of Sociology. He holds degrees from Luther College, the University of Iowa, and the University of Missouri-Columbia where he earned his Ph.D. in Sociology. Prior to joining Wayne State University, Dr. Wardell held academic and administrative appointments at Virginia Tech and the Pennsylvania State University. Dr. Wardell has long-standing interests in sociological theory and the sociology of work. His theoretical work has focused on establishing a philosophical foundation for critical sociology.

Janet Weiss
University of Michigan / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Janet A. Weiss is Vice Provost and Dean of the Graduate School at the University of Michigan. She is also the Mary Bromage Collegiate Professor in the Ford School of Public Policy and the Ross School of Business. As Dean, Dr. Weiss is responsible for the oversight and support of the University’s 104 Ph.D. programs and 90 master’s programs. She is the principal Investigator of the Michigan NSF AGEP grant for the STEM fields, and the AGEP-SBES grant. She has been a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences.

Patricia White
National Science Foundation

Patricia White is Program Director for Sociology at the National Science Foundation, where she has been employed since 1988. Dr. White has held several positions at NSF including coordinator of the Social and Political Sciences Cluster and senior analyst in the NSF’s Division of Science Resources Statistics, in addition to having held Program Officer positions in the Methodology, Measurement, and Statistics, and the Law and Social Science programs. Over the past four years, she has taken a leadership role in defining and articulating “scientific standards” for qualitative research in the social sciences for both investigators developing proposals and reviewers evaluating the merit of the research.

Charlotte Winston
Wayne State University / CUNY-Michigan SBES Alliance

Charlotte Winston received her bachelor’s of science degree at Wayne State University in Psychology with a concentration in Health Psychology and then her Master's degree in Sociology in 2007. Currently, she is pursuing her doctorate degree in Medical Sociology. Charlotte has received various fellowships throughout the course of her academic achievement. As an undergraduate she was the recipient of the National Institute of Mental Health-Career Opportunities in Research (NIMH-COR) fellowship. Upon returning to graduate school she received the National Institute of Health –Initiative for Maximizing Student Diversity (IMSD) fellowship. Presently, she is an AGEP scholar and receives a Graduate Student Assistantship.

Mary York
University of California – Santa Barbara / UC-DIGSSS SBES Alliance

Mary York serves as the Graduate Diversity Coordinator for the Division of Social Sciences and works specifically with the UC DIGSSS Program. Mary has a Master's degree in Education from Indiana University Bloomington and over 12 years experience in various student affairs positions on college campuses throughout the country. A UC Santa Barbara alumna, Mary has a long history and commitment to the profession of Student Affairs, Student Leadership and Student Development. She plans on beginning her own doctoral work in Education beginning in the Fall of 2011. Her ultimate professional goal is to serve as a Dean of Students.

Tina Zarpour
University of Maryland – College Park / Atlantic Coast SBES Alliance

M. Tina Zarpour is a PhD student in anthropology at the University of Maryland. She holds an M.A.A from the same institution and a B.A. from Dartmouth College. She spent approximately ten years working in the museum field, most recently at the Smithsonian Institution. Broadly, her research interests include migrants/immigrants, transnationalism and processes of incorporation, and issues of cultural heritage. She has conducted ethnographic fieldwork among immigrant communities around the Washington D.C. metro area. She currently resides in San Diego, CA where she is conducting preliminary fieldwork for her dissertation.
Conference Center Floor Plans

Level M1

AT&T CONFERENCE CENTER

MEETING LEVEL ONE

Level M2 (ground level – Whitis Street)

AT&T CONFERENCE CENTER

MEETING LEVEL TWO

Whitis Street Entrance